NINE LAKES IN CARMEL VALLEY BY MID-SUMMER!

By mid-summer nine small lakes--the largest about 100 yards long and about 35 yards wide--will be visible from Carmel Valley Rd. at the present lookout on the bluff above Leavell's and Valley Hills Shopping Center. These will be an integral part of the 18-hole golf course which will also be in evidence (greens growing, but still too tender for play) by that time, proudly announces Ed Haber.

Haber is president of Greenmeadows, Inc., developers of the new Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, which until last week was known as Valley Greens subdivision.

Vice-president and treasurer of the developing corporation is George Shafer, retired attorney and CV resident, formerly Commerce Attorney and General Traffic Manager for Weyerhaeuser Lumber in the northwest. Secretary of the organization is attorney Myron Etienne of Salinas. Members of the Board of Directors include Haber, Cdr. James May of Carmel Valley, and Judge Richard Eldred of Pacific Grove.

Sixteen investors own the company, which is still expanding, and may eventually include approximately 25 investors, Haber stated.

Greenmeadows, Inc. owns the golf course and, at present, the subdivision with 168 homesites on the fairway and 2 apartment sites (a total of 21 apartments apiece) on the golf course. A tract office is already in operation near the top of the 250-acre golf subdivision with maps, pictures, a scale model of the golf course, etc.

No deposits may be accepted at this time, Haber states, but prospective homeowners and/or club members are invited to "come and look", and to leave their names if desired. 400 memberships in the golf club will be available, 210 of these reserved for homeowners, the other 190 for residents of the Monterey Peninsula. In addition a limited number of out-of-town memberships will be accepted. The course will be closed to the general public, but courtesies will be extended "wherever possible," Haber said. Membership in the golf club is optional to those who buy homesites in the subdivision.

A 10-acre site is reserved for a motel in addition to the golf clubhouse.

The lakes dotting the greens will affect 7 of the 18 holes, making a total of more water holes on this course than any other course now existing, Haber stated. This is possible because of an unlimited underground water supply, he explained. The lakes will be created through use of plastic liners covered with dirt. Haber says he has many color slides of lakes made by this method in Palm Springs, showing what a completely natural effect is achieved through the elimination of any concrete construction. "The grass can grow right down to the edge of the water," he says.

A continuous pumping process will enable use of lake water for irrigation while the lakes are continually being refilled. Fish will be planted in the lakes for mosquito control, but fishing will be allowable only on announced gala occasions--and then for children only, Haber said.

Construction cost total for the golf course and subdivision will be about $1,500,000. Haber estimates that this construction will employ 100 people for 6 months, after which a permanent staff of about 40 will be employed.

Whether the golf course is finally playable by late autumn or early spring depends--like so many things--on the weather.

VALLEY HOUSE TOUR MAY 22

BY DOROTHY REED

Two contrasting houses in Los Ranchitos are among the five beautiful Valley homes which will be open for patrons of the house tour to be sponsored by the Carmel Valley Womens Club on Wednesday, May 22. Proceeds of the tour will benefit the C.V. Community Center.

Structural solidity and a sense of grand scale characterize Mrs. T.A. Work's country home on Los Robles Road, pictured left. Built by Comstock in the early 1930's, it has his familiar features of board-and-batten exterior combined with natural stone and a steeply pitched shake roof. Ceiling beams inside are 12x18's.

Furnishings emphasize simplicity and comfort in the style of a mountain lodge. Only the kitchen has been modernized to a planner's dream of walnut paneling and stainless steel.

Miss Ruth Dodd's home on Encina Drive is a striking example of modern site-oriented architecture. The triangular lot inspired a house in the shape of a winged triangle, and the wide or narrow angles substituted for the usual square corners produce a surprising effectiveness of function. Many of the furnishings are an integral part of the walls, and the outdoor murals which

MARIA NOW AT FIRST THEATRE

Carmel Valley artist Margaret Ziegler painted this portrait of dancer-actress Maria Anderson, familiar to Valleyites for her roles in many productions at White Oaks Theatre, where she is also a member of the teaching staff.

Vivacious Maria has currently stepped into the role of "Maggie," the darlin' of "Shaun Aroon," now playing at Monterey's First Theatre. Maria has also designed the choreography for the production. "Shaun Aroon" will play through the month of May.

EDITORIAL REPORT:

POA Boards Approve Road Committee Report

Recommendations of the Carmel Valley Road Committee were accepted by the boards of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and the Mid-Valley Property Owners Association last Monday night without a dissenting vote. The unexpected presence of County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain and the determined opposition of one property owner made it a full evening, but firm parliamentary reins in the hands of CVPOA president John Sigourney resulted in adjournment by 10:00 p. m.

The two property owners groups will send representatives to present the Road Committee's recommendations to the County Planning Commission next Tuesday. Neither Sigourney nor Ariel Lane, president of the M-CVPOA, feel that a large delegation from the Valley will be needed at the hearing on the County's proposed planlines. Said Sigourney, "We expect that the Planning Commission will study our recommendations and grant us a delay while they do so. Meantime, we will try to get a consultant as recommended."

RECOMMENDATIONS

mended, basically, that the Valley's one main road be expanded to absorb traffic increase without destroying scenic values. These goals could be accomplished, it was felt, by

1. The construction of 2 cross-access roads approximately paralleling the Los Laureles grade, starting north from Carmel Valley Rd. near Wolter's and Farm Center.

2. Two additional lanes for Carmel Valley Rd., located with concern for terrain and existing improvements, wherever possible far enough from the existing two lanes that a scenic corridor can be maintained between what would be a pair of one-way, two-lane roads.

Other recommendations were:

3. Planlines should be laid now all the way to Carmel Valley Village, so that the Valley may be considered as a whole. "We would like to think of the Village as a termination, not something to be by-passed," reads the report. Two one-way roads described as "similar to the Alvarado-Calle Principal arrangement in Monterey", are also recommended for the Village.

4. Adequate shoulder widths the length of the road, "because we must recognize... that there will be pedestrian and bicycle traffic... We must make some provision for the safety of human life, especially the children..."

5. A speed limit of 55 miles per hour, "with reductions... where local conditions require it."

6. Rather than having hundreds of driveways feeding into Carmel Valley Rd. -- the inevitable result of "strip" development -- the Committee recommended the use of loop-access roads (as in Rancho Canada and the new Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club) wherever possible.

7. Steps must be taken for an adequate junction where Carmel Valley Road meets Highway One.

8. As suggested by Supervisor Tom Hudson, whom the committee commended for his efforts, a planning consultant should be retained by the County to work with the Road Department in achieving this result. "The property owners of Carmel Valley could share a portion of the expense of the consultant in order to retain participation..."

The report estimated that it would take no more than 90 days to complete plans for the above procedure and asked that proposed planlines not be adopted by the County until it is followed. MC CLAIN

In Monday's HERALD, Bruce McClain had stated that a scenic 4-lanes with a 1000 foot right-of-way would cost an estimated $2,800,000 more than the conventional 4-lane highway now proposed by the County. Mc Clain had also stated that land acquisition costs would account for 75% of the additional expense.

Road Committee chairman Paul Cooper read to McClain, board members, and visitors a statement obtained from Area Planning consultant Gordon Hall only a few minutes before the meeting. It said in part,

"There has never been serious consideration of a County right-of-way 1000 feet wide. That width was an ideal aim stated by the Monterey County Park and Recreation Commission 20 years ago and never acted upon." Hall said that in planning for a community ideal standards are necessary as starting points, even though some departure from these will inevitably be necessary.

Hall said that a scenic highway through Carmel Valley should not depend upon land purchase by the County but could be accomplished to a large extent by scenic easements through incentive zoning for subdividers. (This idea appears in the area master plan and will be explained in next week's issue.)

DEADLINE for notices and display advertising, Monday noon. (Last-minute news & classified ads, Tuesday noon.)

SUBSCRIPTIONS: $3.50 per year.

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office in Carmel Valley, California. Decreed a newspaper of general circulation on October 6, 1961, in Superior Court, County of Monterey, Decree No. 52029.

Betty Branch, Editor
Bob Stuart, Business Manager; Barbara Williams, Art; Marjory Lloyd, Outlook-on-Carmel; Margaret Desjarlais, Secretary; Dorothy Reed, Special Assignments; Lee Mixon, Office.

Questioned on the basis of Hall's statement, McClain conceded that his estimate had been based on the "ideal" presented in the area master plan rather than the less demanding aerial photo which Hall released to the OUTLOOK 2 weeks ago.

McClain also conceded that his estimate had been an "educated" guess and was not predicated on actual comparative engineering surveys.

Following the boards' adoption of the Road Committee's recommendations, Sigourney gave Mc Clain an opportunity to retire, saying, "There is no longer any necessity for you to remain here, and I for one wouldn't want to stay at a meeting any longer than I had to." McClain smiled wryly, said, "I might move to a back seat!", and remained until the meeting was adjourned.

Beverly Stover, a semi-retired farmer who is not a member of either property owners board but owns 5 acres in the lower Valley, next presented two petitions. The first opposed a plan released very tentatively by the Road Department several weeks ago. Pointing out that this discarded plan had never been seriously considered by any faction, Sigourney termed it a "dead horse."

The second petition was signed by six of seven property owners who live between Valley Hills Shopping Center and Meadows Rd. and opposed a divided highway which would cut into their front yards. Stover presented the petition on behalf of Mrs. H. S. McGuckin, who was not present.

Mrs. McGuckin told the OUTLOOK the following day that she did not intend that the petition imply that she or other property owners oppose the idea of a scenic highway. "I think a scenic highway is a good idea, better than the plain 4-lanes," she said. "It's just that the map of the separated lanes showed two of them coming within a few feet of our houses. We would rather look at a cut on the other side than have the road come right up to our doorsteps."

Road Committee member Lew McCreery said Tuesday that the "very understandable" wishes of these 6 property owners would be presented to the Planning Commission along with the completed report and recommendations. "When the actual designing is done, allowances and adjustments are naturally going to be made; the map two weeks ago was presented as a rough idea only," he explained.

Stover also told the two boards that Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur was "being considered" as a consultant for the planning of the Road, but declined to elaborate further. Queried about this possibility the next day, Owings expressed surprise, and commented, "I've heard nothing about it."

"Play Ball" This Saturday !!!

Tom Hudson will throw out the first ball when Carmel Valley Little League gets underway Saturday. Opening ceremonies are set for 1:15, with "play ball!" at 1:30. Joe Hitchcock will lead the pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag which once belonged to General Stilwell and is now as much a part of Carmel Valley tradition as Joe himself. A complete season's schedule of CV Little League games appears below. Complete team rosters will appear next week. With Hacienda Carmel's Les Burdett assuming the job of Little League president this year, and the Hacienda's sponsorship of the hitherto orphaned Red Sox team, a goodly representation of Hacienda residents are expected to swell the ranks of the always-enthusiastic rooting section this year.

LYLE WINKLER BUYS BIRDS 'N' BEES

Lyle Winkler has been busy this week adding a pet shop to his lapidary business in the Village. He has cut an eight-foot arch between adjacent lapidary and pet shop premises and plans a grand opening soon at the latter, which he recently purchased from Bud Hall. The new name of the business will be The Village Pet Shop and it will be restocked with pet foods, accessories, birds and fish. A bicycle rental service will also be run in conjunction with the pet shop. Winkler plans to run all operations himself during the winter.

MGR., VALLEY HILLS NURSERY

Poison Oak is a problem to most of us in the Valley.

It is easily recognizable with its three leaflets shaped somewhat like a large oak leaf. The leaflets are shiny and are about 3 to 6 in. long. Poison Oak can be found trailing along the ground or growing up trees and fences. In late summer the leaves turn yellow and red, which often tempts the novice to pick it for decoration (only once.)

We have new chemical controls that are effective if used with care. One of the best seems to be 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T sold under such trade names as "Weedone" and "Weed-B-Gon" Brush Killers. Another effective chemical is Ammonium sulfate sold as "Ammate".

These chemicals should be used with caution, which means seeing that they are kept away from animals and children and also that you do not allow a drift of spray to settle on other broad leaf plants. These are both growth-regulator-type weed killers. They are sprayed on the leaves and work their way down into the plant. After spraying, the plants should not be washed off with a sprinkler or hose for two to three days to give the chemicals a chance to penetrate. On small stands of poison oak, many have found that painting the chemical on with a paint brush is easier and safer than spraying.

Woody clumps often will not be killed out on the first application. It may take as many as three or four to do the job.

Spraying is effective most times of the year, but the plants are most vulnerable during their active growing season in Spring and early Summer.

The California Agricultural Extension Service has published a small leaflet entitled "Poison Oak and its Control", leaflet #40, which can be obtained by writing to the University of Calif. at Berkeley. There are pictures of poison oak in it for those who haven't had the pleasure of making its acquaintance yet.

"MAN OF THE YEAR"

By Lester A. Golden

With the lovely green of the fields and hills and the beautiful wildflowers, and the clear cold water rushing and gurgling in all the streams and gullies everywhere, more people were out in the country during the weekend to enjoy the balmy weather and the opening of trout season in this area than anyone can remember.

Fishing was excellent in the Los Padres Reservoir and in the upper Carmel River below the Los Padres Dam where the catchable size trout had been planted by the Department of Fish and Game prior to the opening day. A check by wardens working in the area indicated that a daily bag limit of ten trout was the average taken by fishermen there, rather than the exception.

It is refreshing to note that fishing was also good in our beautiful old Carmel River, where native wild trout are present in considerable numbers. While these fish are not as uniform in size as the fish stocked by the Department, there is that certain satisfaction in knowing they are truly wild fish. Also there is the added thrill of anticipation in that you might hook a fine big steelhead too. Several large steelhead were taken, ranging in size from 18 to 24 inches. It is good fishing now in the Carmel River all the way downstream to the Highway #1 Bridge on the Coast. The most successful anglers seemed to be those using flies and artificial lures.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK May 5th to May 11th, 1963

Monterey County S. P. C. A. urges you to BE KIND TO ANIMALS

HIS FIRST DOG.
(AT THE AGE OF SEVEN.)

BY LILLIAN GRACE PACA

So small, so lost, so dreadful hungry, Mother.
It's snowing out--going to be awful cold.
Isn't he cute? I found him crying, Mother.
Just take him in your arms, he's soft to hold.

I'll feed him ev'ry day, I'll give him water,
Teach him to mind--you'll never know at all
He's in the house. Please let me keep him, Mother
Hold him just once--isn't he soft and small?

Dear Little son, dear valiant, faithful puppy,
Golden those summer days for him and you,
Surely you follow him in that vast heaven,
Sleep at his side, just as you used to do?

Your grave is underneath the lilac bushes,
His grave lies high above the China Sea.
Love such as yours can bridge the widest ocean,
And Memories can link you both to me.

--May 30, 1943--

In memory of this kind little boy who, later, on his eighteenth birthday gave his life for his country.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tod of 116 W. Carmel Valley Road last week enjoyed a visit from friends and former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Van Alterwelt who now make their home in the Palos Verdes Estates.

Colored lights playing on a tiered fountain and pool at the Valley Lodge is a beautiful new feature added at Ford Road and W. Carmel Valley Road by the Valentines. Exotic plants of Flax are "in" and will add even further to the tropical setting.

Carmel Valley had a distinguished representative last week in San Jose at the 13th annual session of the Model United Nations of the Pacific West. Anthony DaVigo played the role of president of the International Court of Justice. Another Valleyite at the Model UN was Leon Panetta. Both men are students at the University of Santa Clara Law School. DaVigo is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Antoine DaVigo of Via Milpitas and Panetta is the son of the Carmelo Panettas of Panetta Road.

The thoughtfulness of Sylvia Schwarz was appreciated by members of the Friday night work party setting up Saturday's Flower Show when a telegram filled with good wishes for the Fourth Annual event was timed to arrive. Mrs. Schwarz is visiting with members of her family in New York.

Every year a "Mussel Hustle" is held in Carmel to give old timers and new comers alike an opportunity to dip succulent sea food in delectable sauces. An achievement award this year went to Lew McCreery for his superior type catch.

Twenty-one members of Brownie Scout Troop #89 roasted hot dogs for their dinner last week at the dinner meeting held at the Ray Slingerland residence on West Carmel Valley Road. Singing and games preceded the outdoor party supervised by Troop Leaders, Mrs. L. L. Alley and Mrs. Ray Slingerland.

It was a busy week end for Jean and Don McKenzie Jr. and family who spent the time working on their new home off La Rancheria. The McKenzies who are long-time residents of the Lower Valley have purchased the Medcraft residence.

Valley authors, Elizabeth Clemmons Robinson and Beulah Karney Powers were among writers of juvenile fiction honored at the Library Week Luncheon last Saturday. Representing the Carmel Valley Library were Mrs. Tracey Williams, Mrs. Dorothy Kennedy, and Mrs. Walter Avis and son.

Ann Russel, daughter of the Jack Russels of La Rancheria celebrated her fifth birthday last week when cake and ice cream were served to her classmates at Cowan School.

An oversized horn and a string of camel bells with signs instructing customers to "Blow horn or ring bells for service" is the novel addition at the Carmel Valley Market checkout stand. One "toot" or one "jingle" brings the good natured staff running to give service (or to revive an unsuspecting soul who happened to be browsing in another department of the store!)

Occupying their Hilltop home in Robles were Pepe and Alexander Casey who were down from Hillsborough for the week end festivities at Pebble Beach. Among other Valleyites participating were Bill Bradley, an entrant in the horse show, and John Gardiner, who directed the 63rd annual California State Tennis Championships.

AID CALLS

The first aid crew of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department last week answered the following calls:

May 3, 1:58 a. m. Ronald Alexander was taken to the Monterey Hospital with head and chest injuries following a one car accident on Boronda Road. Alexander's car ran off the road and into a power pole.

May 3, 7:15 p. m. another one car accident on Village Drive sent Arthur Reichert of Boronda Road, his daughter, Bonnie Miller, a son, Bill Miller, and a passenger, Debbie Mahoney, to Dr. Van Horn's office for treatment of minor injuries.

May 5, 2:35 p. m. Stewart Fackenthal of Will's Fargo was treated for a lacerated right hand and sent to his doctor.

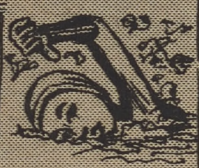

May 5, 7:05 p. m. Robert Meadows of 10 Sage Road was treated for a fish hook in his left eye and sent to his physician.

AND ONE FALSE ALARM

The A-1 ambulance screamed up Carmel Valley Road to 11 Hitchcock Canyon Road on Monday night in response to a telephone call to the sheriff's office. On arrival, the driver found only the peaceful quiet of a moonlit night. Hammering on the door aroused from sleep the occupants of the house who knew nothing about the emergency call. The sheriff's office reports the incident was a practical joke by an unknown person. Beverly Creighton and Katurah Clark live at the Hitchcock Canyon address.

BROWNIE FASHION SHOW: Though Carmel Valley has been bedazzled by a series of brilliant fashion presentations this season, it's doubtful if any of these could have elicited more enthusiasm than the one given recently by the 3rd grade members of Brownie Troop #23. An admiring audience of mothers and friends commented on the professional poise and posture of the young models as well as the array of togs from Sugar 'n' Spice. The young ladies seen here are Robyn Fraser, Martha Hogan, Linda Klemek, Judy Winkler, Sandy Swiss, and Sara Gay Senger.

MARJORY LLOYD - Contributing Editor

NEEDED: A PATH -- AND AN INSPIRATION

Students who live within walking distance of Carmel Junior High School--approximately one-fifth of the student body--must be transported to school by bus because there is no pedestrian or bicycle path along Highway One or Carmel Valley Road. This bus service required the purchase of a $30,000 bus by the Carmel Unified School District this year--plus an operating cost of $1,231.

Trustee Clayton Neill, Jr., has long been concerned about these matters and also concerned that many students now walk or ride to the junior high, traversing two dangerous intersections on Highway One, the more dangerous Highway One-Carmel Valley Road junction; the four to two-lane narrowing of the Valley road near the school.

Parents are also concerned.

District Engineer Mike Foley of the State Division of Highways explains that the division can do nothing to provide a pedestrian or bicycle path to the school--but that the division will not object to such a path constructed on the State's right-of-way by private or community enterprise.

"Gas tax funds," Foley told the OUTLOOK Monday, "are only allowed to be used for traffic facilities." Pedestrian or bicycle paths do not qualify, he emphasized.

However, Foley continued, if paths exist, they will be replaced "in kind" if eliminated by any highway construction. He said that the pedestrian path beside the Carmel-PG-Monterey interchange was situated "on a bench developed during excavation" of the interchange site.

He added that, during a discussion he had last year with "local officials" about developing such a pedestrian path in this area, he met with opposition and fear of "people's reaction to destroying growth" necessary to construct the path.

Foley also pointed out that the slope of the land along the highway south of Ocean Avenue was "a serious problem" and a path would "not be easy to construct" in the hillside terrain.

Figures provided by Wayne Greenfield, assistant superintendent of the Carmel school district show: 44 students are transported by bus to the junior high from Mission Fields; 36 from the Hatton Fields area; 30 from South Carmel Hills and back of the high school. All of them live in areas considered within walking distance of the school under normal safety conditions. Lack of safe conditions makes the bus service mandatory.

Payment this year on the 20-year $30,000 lend-lease bus purchase amounted to $1,531. In addition, cost of driver, gas, oil and tires for the bus this year is $1,231, according to Greenfield's figures.

The latter amount, at least, would be saved if a pedestrian or bicycle path were now constructed, he says.

Colonel Arthur Black, safety chairman of the Carmel Junior High School Parents Club, says that many of the parents would like to have their children walk or ride bicycles to the junior high, mostly for the exercise. But until some safe means is provided on the east side of Highway One there is no way that this desire can be realized, even if crossing guards were provided at dangerous intersections, Black's investigations have disclosed.

"What we need at this point is an inspiration," he remarked Monday.

Other school districts in California, faced with lack of safe means of children walking or riding bicycles to school, have solved their problems by co-operative community efforts, even to the extent of property owners relinquishing rights-of-way over their land for pedestrian paths in some areas.

The Division of Highways makes

Located at 785 Broadway, Seaside, the Thrift Shop is operated entirely by volunteer members of MPVS. Every type of article is sold and every article is donated. it plain that any pedestrian or bicycle path to Carmel Junior High School is a problem to be solved by this community.

As Colonel Black points out, we need inspiration.

Cancer Fund Drive

Over $2000 had been collected from Carmel Valley for the Cancer Fund drive early this week, with new "mail-ins" arriving daily. Mrs. Mary Ann Taylor, fund co-ordinator, said that "everyone in the office thinks the volunteers in Carmel Valley did a perfectly marvelous job." Total for Carmel so far (with more arriving daily from that area, also) was not quite $5000 early this week, including territory from Pebble Beach to Point Lobos.

TANTAMOUNT THEATRE OPENS MAY 24

Tantamount Theatre of Carmel Valley will begin its 1963 season on May 24. "The Mermaid," based on the Hans Christian Anderson story, will be the initial puppet presentation, with a number of comedy acts to be performed after the traditional coffee intermission. Jacklyn Cornelius, Jon Baldwin, and new Valley resident Jan Mauser will be performing "under-stage" this year as part of the Tantamount company under the direction of entrepreneurs Ralph Geddis and Francois Martin.

Geddis & Martin, whose puppets have performed around the world, stress that theirs is definitely "Adult Theatre." This is not the same as saying "for adults only"; Tantamount puppet presentations are meant to be all-family affairs, but are not slanted predominantly for juvenile enjoyment.

Members of the audience are invited backstage following the performance for inspection of production facilities and of the carved-wood "actors," which have been exhibited as works of art in leading museums of both coasts.

"The Mermaid" will run for 4 weekends with matinees on June 1 and June 8.

CLASSES

Classes in the arts and crafts of Theatre will be held at Tantamount this summer in addition to their regular production program. Geddis and Martin will give private and group instruction, beginning or advanced, in voice development, diction, acting, and staging for "live" theatre. There will also be a complete technical workshop course in puppetry.

Carmel Little League

Two hundred and fifty fans attended opening ceremonies of the Carmel Little League season on Saturday at the league's ball park near Carmel Mission Basilica.

Three games were played. In the first game Boys' Town tallied one run to defeat scoreless Sport Shop. In the second game Pilot Market piled up eight runs to Wilder and Jones' four. The third game was won by P. A. Macs with a three-run lead over goose-egged Turner and McEldowney.

MONDAY NIGHT

Greg Campbell pitched a no-hit game Monday evening for Sport Shop but saw his team lose to P. A. Macs on errors. The latter team scored three runs to Sport Shop's one.

Because the art of puppetry includes practically every phase of handcraft as well as dramatic techniques, Geddis and Martin between them possess an all-encompassing variety of skills. As a duo, they designed and built in 1936, '37, and '38, internationally famous Christmas windows of mechanical puppets at Macy's, New York, supplanting Tony Sarg in this project; they also designed masks for the Maude Adams production of "The Merchant of Venice."

Geddis, who has taught the art of puppetry at Mills College summer session, is among other things a textile designer whose fabrics have been honored by awards and one-man shows in art museums on both coasts, and have been tailored by Valentina for many Broadway stars. For two years he was on the staff of the New York Neighborhood Playhouse as actor, dancer, and technician. He studied drama under Irving Pichel and dance under Fokine--among many others. He has danced with Martha Graham. His first professional theatre job began when he was 14 years old--at the old Liberty Playhouse in Oakland--in burlesque!

Martin originally trained as a painter in a four-year apprenticeship in Santa Barbara, studied classical drawing at the Corcoran Gallery School in Washington, D.C. He studied acting, voice, scene design, and stagecraft at Santa Barbara's Lobero and Community Arts Theatres.

HAPPY YOUNG LADY on the right, above, is Mary Gannon of Carmel who was chosen to be the new Miss Monterey County Saturday night. Applauding her selection is Pamela Gamble, Miss California, and last year's Miss Carmel Valley winner of the 1962 Miss Monterey County contest.

Mary will go to Santa Cruz at the end of June to compete for the Miss California title. She is a sophomore at MPC majoring in sociology with a drama minor, and is also employed at the Village Corner in Carmel. Her future plans are to be a social worker. Her greatest interest is People.

"It was really a surprise," Mary says about being chosen Miss Monterey County. "I would have been excited even if I had only been a runner-up." She plans to repeat "100 Ways To Lose A Man", a musical comedy number from "Wonderful Town", in the Miss California talent contest. "I hope they like it as well as they did Saturday night," she says.

Interclub Horse Show Attracts 200 Entries

A large number of entries—an estimated 200—and bright, balmy weather provided excitement and pleasure for horsemen from several nearby areas last Sunday at the Trail & Saddle Club grounds. There were 22 classes of events and 5 winners in each, 55 of these to members of the Carmel Valley Horsemen's Association or the Carmel Valley Trail & Saddle Club.

The judges were Mrs. Lola Galli and Mrs. Jim Indart; show chairman was Charles Rickey; ring and arena steward, George Pullman; show secretary, Ruth Bishop; announcer, Paul Porter.

Winners from the Valley's two equestrian clubs were:

COMBS' CANINE CORNERS

Adelaide Combs writes about the Dog Show

With the big Del Monte Kennel Club All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trials just around the corner, I keep hearing questions like "What is a dog show?", "Why enter a dog show?", or "What is it all about?" A dog show is the place where purebred dogs compete for trophies, championship points, and top honors. It's a meeting place for dog fanciers, breeders, and dog lovers who get together for the primary purpose of improving the quality of all purebred dogs, and for the sport of watching the different breeds in competition.

Dog shows are fun. You meet other people who are interested in the same kind of dog you have and learn more about your own breed. Showing your dog can become an exciting and entertaining hobby that all members of the family can share.

To enter, your dog must be registered or listed with the American Kennel Club, he must be at least six months old by the day of the show, and, if a female, cannot be spayed.

First, obtain the proper entry form from the show superintendent or a member of the club sponsoring the show. Be sure to answer all questions on the entry blank correctly and sign your name at the bottom. Don't hesitate to ask for help in filling out the form from someone who has entered a dog show before.

You have five regular classes for each sex for each breed to choose from: Puppy, Novice, Bred by Exhibitor, American-Bred, and Open. If your dog is between 6-12 months of age, then the puppy class is the one for you. If he is over a year old and this is your first show, then enter him in the Novice class. The American-Bred and Open classes generally are for the more experienced handler, as the competition in these classes is usually very stiff.

When you have sent in your entry to the Superintendent's office, you will then receive your ticket with your dog's number on it and a schedule of the judging. Be sure to arrive at the show on time and be ready to take your dog into the ring when his turn comes. You'll be expected to trot your dog around the ring and stand him for the judge to examine. Just do exactly as the judge tells you and you will pass with flying colors—you may even bring home the purple ribbon and championship points.

Hurry and make your entry for the Del Monte Show before May 13th! You won't have far to travel for your first show, and you'll never find a more beautiful setting for a dog show. I'll see you there....

The Youth Center was not crowded last week, due to the Prom at Carmel High, but we still had fun.

Have you ever seen the dance called "The Bird"? It's simply tough. (*see below.) We are dancing by using the Pop Eye Step which looks rather sharp.

I would like to invite parents and other fellow teen-agers and I feel that if you have any harsh feelings about the group and about the kids who attend you would find a very different side of them if you would just give us and yourself a chance to get acquainted!

Next week is a very good time for you to come and see what it is like. After this invitation, I hope to see all of you there.

Until next week,
"Skeeter".

*((Ed. note: To any adults reading this column, may I as the mother of teen-agers explain that the word "tough" is part of current teen dialect? It has become a term of positive approbation. Similarly, the word "sharp" in teen-lingo bears no relation to knives. It is the equivalent of the word "keen" with which we, in our day, similarly annoyed our parents. No kiddin'!))

IVER B. HENNINGSEN

Iver B. Henningsen, an 83 year old native of Jamesburg, died last week at his home following a heart attack. Born April 28, 1880, Mr. Henningsen had been employed by the Salinas Pacific Gas and Electric Company until his retirement in 1944. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Jennie Henningsen; a son, William Henningsen of Salinas; a granddaughter, Mrs. Gordon Ray of Salinas; and two great-grandchildren.
